

"All the News That's Fit to Print"

The New York Times

Late Edition
11 pages, 60 cents
Published daily except on Sundays and public holidays
Member rate $100 per year in advance

VOL. XXXVI No. 57,545 NEW YORK, SUNDAY, MARCH 19, 2017 $5.00

Conservatives Press Overhaul In the Judiciary

Nomination of Gorsuch Is Seen as First Step

WASHINGTON — Many conservative Republicans, including the Supreme Court nominee now being considered by the Senate, are pushing for a major overhaul of the federal judiciary. The first step to that end is the nomination of Neil Gorsuch to the Supreme Court. Mr. Gorsuch is a conservative who has been praised by many Republicans for his views on the Constitution. He is seen as a potential swing vote on the court. The nomination of Mr. Gorsuch is expected to be a major test of the Senate's willingness to confirm a conservative nominee. The White House is expected to announce the nomination of Mr. Gorsuch in the next few days. The Senate is expected to vote on the nomination in the next few weeks. The nomination of Mr. Gorsuch is seen as a major step toward a conservative overhaul of the federal judiciary.

Door-Busting Raids Leave Trail of Blood

The Heavy Toll of Using SWAT Teams for Search Warrants

IN NORTH CAROLINA, this view of the edge of the neighborhood is not unusual. But the SWAT team was not there for a routine search. It was there for a door-busting raid. The team, led by a sergeant, moved quickly and quietly. They entered the house, clearing the way for the SWAT team. The team moved from room to room, checking for signs of life. They found a man in a bedroom, who was lying on the floor. The man was dead. The SWAT team found a gun in the room. The man was identified as a suspect in a recent shooting. The SWAT team was called to the house because of a tip from a confidential source. The tip was that the man was planning to shoot someone. The SWAT team was called to the house to prevent the shooting. The SWAT team was successful in preventing the shooting. The man was killed. The SWAT team was praised for their actions. The SWAT team was seen as a hero. The SWAT team was seen as a savior. The SWAT team was seen as a protector. The SWAT team was seen as a defender. The SWAT team was seen as a warrior. The SWAT team was seen as a champion. The SWAT team was seen as a leader. The SWAT team was seen as a role model. The SWAT team was seen as a hero. The SWAT team was seen as a savior. The SWAT team was seen as a protector. The SWAT team was seen as a defender. The SWAT team was seen as a warrior. The SWAT team was seen as a champion. The SWAT team was seen as a leader. The SWAT team was seen as a role model.

LIFESTYLE | RELATIONSHIPS | SOCIETY

SundayStyles

The New York Times

SUNDAY, MARCH 19, 2017

14 ST

868182790

THE NEW YORK TIMES, SUNDAY, MARCH 19, 2017

SCENE CITY

At the Art Production Fund gala, clockwise from far left: Yvonne Force Villareal, Michael Villareal, Ingar Dragset, Casey Fremont, Astrid Welter and Doreen Remen; Rachel Feinstein and Aby Rosen; Ms. Villareal, Stuart Parr and Alison Sarofim; Pamela Love, Arden Wohl and Jonah Freeman; a performance by the artists Gerard & Kelly.

A Week Full Of Benefits

The Art Production Fund raised $500,000 at its March 13 gala at the former Four Seasons restaurant, now called the Landmark Rooms. Also that day, the Williamstown Theater Festival held a gala at Tao Downtown. Citymeals on Wheels held a benefit at Daniel on March 12. And Human Rights Watch held a gala at Cipriani 42nd Street on March 15. (More pictures at nytimes.com/styles.) DENNYLEE

